KENNEDY OFFERS SOVIET NEW DISARMAMENT PLAN

2 Bensalem Youths Killed As Car Flips

Convertible Hits Fence, Skids 50 Ft.

Two Cornwells Heights teenagers were killed last night when the convertible in which they were riding went out of control, crashed into a steel wire fence on State Road in Bensalem Twp., overturned and skidded 50 feet on its collapsed top.

Good Evening!

S.O. Bating for G.G.G.

President Kennedy has a big job.

He tried today to convince the U.N. and the world that we will stand firm on Berlin and at the same time convince the unpledged nations it is to their advantage to have a strong Secretary-General.

With General Clay putting his foot in his mouth in Berlin it will be hard to convince the Russians we aren't ready to "negotiate" Russian style.

That means, as Kennedy himself pointed out once, that the Russians get everything and give nothing.

The Russians feel that argument is a game and must be played to the bitter end. To beat them you must argue just a bit longer, threaten a little more and understand their thinking.

It was the Russians who resumed testing with 15 air explosions but then raised a rumpus when we resumed underground tests.

The H-bomb will never determine who is right. Only who is left.

Airplane accidents back in the news. In both the Boston crash and the North Carolina tragedy there were some very lucky people.

Especially fortunate were those in the Boston accident where the liner skidded right into Boston Bay. All 71 were fished out of the harbor in a spectacular rescue.

Meanwhile in Wilmington, North Carolina, 10,000 were watching as a plane carrying 15 people crashed and burned on takeoff. Three policemen were killed but 12 trapped including members of the old champion Sky Diver parachute team.

The Philadelphia Eagles were very fortunate to escape a victory yesterday. They had the breaks but could only win by a touchdown over the Washington Redskins.

However, like champions they turned the advantage of the breaks.

Years the two sexes have been racing for supremacy. Now they are settled down to neck and nuzzle.

Isn't what a girl knows that makes her a man. It's how she uses it.

Be careful.

The victims were Sidney Guilford, 16, of 243 Hemlock Ave., the driver, and his passenger, Ernest Belmont Jr., 17, of 433 Hemlock Ave.

The fatalities were the 26th and 27th in Bucks County this year. There were 28 at this time last year.

Belmont was dead on arrival at the Lower Bucks County Hospital while Guilford died about an hour after the accident, which occurred at 6:20 p.m.

Out Of Control

The youths' vehicle went out of control after they tried to pass another car on State Road, Edgington, about a quarter mile below Street, police said. They said that apparently the youths were racing another auto.

According to police, what caused the car to go out of control is not definitely known. But tire marks indicated that the car hit the right shoulder of State Road, then careened across the highway where it struck the cyclone fence outside Publicker Industries, Inc. and then overturned, police said.

Next To Car

The car continued another 50 feet alongside the fence—on its top—and came to rest in the middle of the driveway to the firm. The two youths were found lying next to their car by Bensalem Patrolmen Fred Chubb and Richard Brantle when they arrived.

The youths were brought to the hospital by the Bucks County Rescue Squad.

Cooler Clime On The Way

Cooler weather is forecast for Lower Bucks County after a week-end of summer-time weather.

George Whiteley Jr., forecaster for the U.S. Weather Bureau, Trenton, which forecasts for this area, said today's mostly fair weather, with a high temperature in the low 80s, will be followed by possible showers tonight and tomorrow. Tonight's low temperature will be in the 60s, and tomorrow's high in the 70s.

This follows a warm weekend, including yesterday's high of 86 degrees, which was three degrees away from the record high of 89 set in 1959. Saturday's high was 89 degrees. The record high for Saturday is 97 degrees, set back in 1895.

The five-day outlook calls for the temperature to average about five degrees above the normal of 63 degrees for the period, with showers expected again Thursday or Friday.

Chamber Group Asks County For Delaware Port

The port development committee of the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce suggested to the Bucks County Commission this morning that they create an authority to develop shipping facilities on the Delaware River in the county.

The committee, headed by Thomas B. Stockham 3rd of Morrisville, urged the commissioners to immediately move to have a survey made of the port possibilities in Lower Bucks.

The committee, headed by board, Commissioners Edward B. Boyer and Adolph A. Andrews, expressed their approval of a feasibility study.

Possible Members

Boyer asked the committee to suggest possible members for a study group.

Members of the committee attending were Roland E. Sykes, president-elect; and Earle S. Tomlinson, executive vice president of the chamber.

Also attending were Joseph D. Seader, president; Gordon R.

Exley 2nd, executive director, and C. V. Afflerback, assistant director, of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation.

Tomlinson explained that the committee came to the commissioners with the authority proposal after the bi-state group of which it was part was rebuffed by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

Shipping Facilities

Representatives of Bucks County and Trenton had asked the commission to use its powers to set up shipping facilities on the Delaware River.

The bridge commission tabled the proposal explaining that it wanted to wait and see the effects of the new four-state Delaware River Compact.

Stockham said some surveys of the port possibilities have been made. One of the survey reports was given to the commissioners.

Smiths Have Home Again— Across Street

The Smiths have a home again.

This past Friday, Mrs. Helen Smith, 39, of 814 Dunbury Road, Fairless Hills, and five of her six children escaped an early morning fire that completely destroyed the interior of their home, including its contents of food, furniture and clothing.

However, the youngest Smith child, Helen Regina, three months old, died at Lower Bucks County Hospital Friday, five hours after two neighbors and a passer-by rescued her from a crib in a rear bedroom of the Smith home.

Live Across Street

Now, the Smiths have a home across the street, at 815 Dunbury Road. This dwelling, formerly unoccupied, was supplied by John W. Galbreath of the Danherst Corporation, builders of Fairless Hills.

Edward I. Smith was at work when he received word of the fire. He quickly returned to comfort his wife and children, Kathleen, 9; Mary Elizabeth, 8, twin boys Christopher and William, 7 and John, 6.

Mrs. Smith managed to retrieve her handbag and its contents and (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Firm Over Berlin; Rejects Red Troika

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — President Kennedy, warning that the fate of man has never been so imperiled, challenged the Soviet Union today to agree to a new six-point disarmament program beginning with restoration of the ban on nuclear tests.

The President rejected Russia's demands to place a three-man "troika" at the head of the United Nations and warned anew that the Western powers are ready to defend West Berlin "by whatever means are forced upon them."

"The events and decisions of the next ten months may well decide the fate of man for the next ten thousand years," the President said in his first address to the U.N. General Assembly.

"Unless man can match his strides in weaponry and technology with equal strides in social and political development, our great strength, like that of the dinosaur, will become incapable of proper control—and man, like the dinosaur, will decline and disappear."

Calls For Peace Race

Conceding that ringing declarations of principles were not enough to prevent the risk of war, the President announced "our intention to challenge the Soviet Union, not to an arms race, but to a peace race—to advance with us step by step, stage by stage, until general and complete disarmament has actually been achieved."

"We invite them now to go beyond agreement in principle to reach agreement on actual plans."

"For 15 years we have sought to make the atom an instrument of peaceful growth instead of war," Kennedy said. "But for 15 years our concessions have been matched by obstruction. Our patience has been rewarded with intransigence. And the pleas of mankind have been met with disregard."

To halt the spread of "these terrible weapons," of air contamination and of a spiraling nuclear arms race, the President said, the United States remains ready to seek "new avenues of agreement."

Lists Various Topics

Our new disarmament program, he said, includes the following:

7 More Accused Of Drugstore Thefts In Twp.

Justice of the Peace Joseph M. Haines of Bristol Township late Saturday bound over to the grand jury seven more men accused of pilfering, selling or purchasing between $1,000 and $1,500 worth of merchandise from the Sun Ray Drug Store in the Midway Shopping Center, Bristol Township, since last April.

This brings to 10 the number of persons involved in the alleged ring; three were bound over to the grand jury by Squire Haines Friday night, including two employees of the store.

In addition, three juveniles, whose names were withheld, also have been questioned and have admitted their part in the thefts, Sun Ray officials said this morning.

Released Under Bond

All 10 of the adults have been released each under $500 bond by Squire Haines. Three of them entered no plea to the charges of larceny, one of them pleaded not guilty and six pleaded guilty before him.

The one who pleaded not guilty was Joseph Bounds, 42, of 942 Locust Ave., Andalusia, oldest of the alleged gang. According to testimony at Friday night's hearing, a 42-year-old man made weekly visits to the Sun Ray store and the store employees handed over to him much of the merchandise that was taken.

The seven were bound over Saturday night, all accused of larceny. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

On Non-Support Charge; Still Drives Beer Truck

Strobele Back In Court With $18—'All I Have In The World'

William J. Strobele, Bristol Borough councilman who was worth more than a quarter of a million dollars only a few years ago, dug down into his trousers pocket over the weekend and brought out $18.

"That's all the money I have in the world," he told Bucks County Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite.

Strobele was back in court on a non-support charge brought by his wife, Florence, who claimed through her attorney, James Fitzcharles III, that he is $3,328 behind in support payments. He had been ordered to pay $75 per week.

$3 A Day

However, Strobele said, he was employed during the summer as driver of a beer truck for only $3 per day plus meals, paying part of his $7.50 weekly room rent by working part-time in a watch repair shop.

He still is driving a beer truck, he told the court, but at the figure of $50 a week, and he has prospects of a job as an automobile salesman.

Judge Satterthwaite continued the case with the stipulation that Strobele pay $30 per week now instead of the former figure of $75.

New-Car Franchise

Strobele operated a new-car franchise in Bristol for 35 years and at one time was a director of a Bristol bank. However, various court cases involving non-support and bankruptcy (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Marine Band Draws 1,750

William S. Bray, publicity chairman for the Bristol Rotary Club, announced today that yesterday's concert given by the U. S. Marine Band were "very successful and brought out an enthusiastic crowd."

Bray stated that a capacity audience of 1,000 attended the afternoon performance at Woodrow Wilson High School in Levittown. Over 750 persons were present for the evening concert at 8:30 o'clock.

The concerts were sponsored by the Bristol Rotary Club for the benefit of the Bucks County Division of the Philadelphia Society of Crippled Children and Adults.

To Further Work

Money obtained from the concerts will be used to further work at the society's treatment center (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Nearest Correct Answer Wins $550

There must be a winner.

Yes, COINWORD No. 30 is going off this week. And the person with the correct answer—or the nearest correct answer, will walk off with the $550 jackpot this week.

Deadline for entries is midnight tonight. Entries must be postmarked by midnight or brought in person to the Courier-Times Building before that time.

You still have time to become $550 richer. A little time today might give you a lot of dollars later in the week. In case of a tie, the money will be divided.

not and should not await general disarmament talks."

2—"Stopping the production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, and preventing their transfer to any nation now lacking nuclear weapons."

3—"Prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not now own them."

4—"Keeping nuclear weapons from seeding new battlegrounds in outer space."

5—"Gradually destroying existing nuclear weapons and converting their materials to peaceful uses."

6—"Halting the unlimited testing and production of strategic delivery vehicles, and gradually destroying them as well."

Kennedy, making his first appearance before the U.N. General Assembly, said there was no need for a Berlin crisis, but that the Western powers were calmly resolved to defend their obligations and access to a free West Berlin.

His appraisal of Berlin, however, was largely positive.

"We believe a peaceful agreement is possible which protects the freedom of West Berlin and Allied presence and access," he said in his prepared address, "while recognizing the historic and legitimate interests of others in assuring European security."

Specific Military Plan

Urging other nations to join this country "in dismantling the national capacity to wage war," the Chief Executive also offered specific plans for using military power to keep the peace pending a start on genuine disarmament.

Kennedy recommended that all members of the United Nations earmark special "peace-keeping units" of their armed forces specially trained and quickly available, for U.N. use against brush-fire wars.

The President made these points:

—He firmly rejected the Russian "troika" theory of replacing the late U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld with a triumvirate subject to Communist bloc veto. The troika system, he said, would "entrench the cold war in the headquarters of peace."

Has Disarmament Program

—He announced that the United States shortly would present to the General Assembly a detailed program for general and complete disarmament, proposing that disarmament be approached step by step rather than in one master plan of negotiation. The U.S. plan probably will be submitted later today or sometime Tuesday.

—As a start on disarmament, he called for an immediate nuclear test ban treaty among all nations. This, he said, should not await general disarmament talks.

His proposal to halt the nuclear arms race included a plan for gradual destruction of all existing nuclear weapons.

—Kennedy urged extension of the U.N. Charter to the rest of the universe, thus reserving a pace for peaceful use and progress.

Going in Circles

By Ken Rabben

Music will certainly fill the lower Bucks County air during the coming months.

Three musical organizations, the Delaware Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, the Bucks County Community Concerts Association and the New Hope Chamber Music Series will provide residents of all musical tastes with activities each week through April.

This Sunday, the Netherlands Antler Orchestra, 23 pieces (a harpsichord will be present) at Woodrow Wilson High School by the Community Concerts Association. In New Hope, same afternoon, The Berkshire Trio will perform at the Barn, next to the Bucks County Playhouse.

The following Sunday, the Philomonic will open its 1961-62 season at Woodrow Wilson High School.

Monday's schedule conflicts with the only one thus far that will force residents to leave a music listening choice, to top it off, both musical organizations feature chamber music.

Music fans will also be interested in a new course being offered by the Pennsylvania Adult School of Music, "World of Jazz." The course will be taught by Ed B. Bittan of 309 Dogwood Ave., Levittown, on Thursday

Lawrence Raps GOP On School Bill

By TOM TINDALL
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Some 350 Bristol Township Democrats and friends Saturday night heard Gov. David L. Lawrence predict a sweeping Democratic victory in Bucks County in the Nov. 7 general elections.

The mood of the President's speech was concerned more with the possibility of reducing East-West tensions than in establishing a stern posture toward the Soviet Union.

He rejected as utterly impossible the idea of current differences flaring into major conflict, saying no matter how intense the current issues, "mankind must put an end to war or war will put an end to mankind."

He made the specific point that even if Russia signs a peace treaty with East Germany, peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis is possible.

Accepting New View

While it has been accepted in Western councils for some time that a more or less permanent division of the Germanies was inevitable, this was the first time Kennedy had spelled out acceptance of a separate Soviet peace treaty with East Germany.

"It is absurd to allege that we are threatening a war merely to prevent the Soviet Union and East Germany from signing a so-called 'treaty of peace,'" Kennedy told an audience that included not only the U.N. delegations, but a nationwide, worldwide, radio and television audience.

interested in developing the port.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is currently dredging the Delaware River channel up to the Fairless Steel Works to a depth of 40 feet. Stockham said the dredging 35 foot channel further upstream to Trenton has not been confirmed.

Exley said the channel from the steel plant to Trenton is not needed for Bucks County to develop its waterfront. He said the owners of industrial land on the river have made studies for a port.

Boyer, in approving the study proposal, called the survey "a necessity for the orderly development of Lower Bucks County."

Tomlinson said that after the bridge commission tabled the port idea, the state planning director, Francis B. Pitkin, suggested that the Delaware River Port Authority take on the project.

"They're ready to put their hands out if we don't do something about it," Tomlinson said.

Work For Victory

Principal messages in the addresses of both the governor and Miss Alpern dealt with the necessity for the Democrats to work hard if they expect a November victory.

The governor told the party people assembled in the crowded and stifling hot fire hall that they must "avoid inertia and a certain amount of lethargy." He spoke for some 15 minutes from a prepared text.

Justice Alpern, who spoke ad lib, told the guests essentially the same thing.

The strongest indictment Governor Lawrence made against the Republican party in the state came near the end of his speech when he said "the Republicans in the senate were united in absolute opposition to a program for educational advancement."

"This is the one defeat we suffered in the 1961 session," the governor said, "and it is a grievous defeat, for it has set Pennsylvania education back and denied Pennsylvania children the opportunity they must have to get the best education possible."

The $10-a-plate roast beef dinner at which the governor spoke was followed by dancing.

Eugene Kilroy, 26, of 924 Bellevue Ave., Pennell, the one who pleaded guilty; and these six who pleaded guilty:

Merrill Thim, 18, of 1174 Sunset Ave., Cornwells Heights;

James Rowan, 19, of 1162 Whitely Ave., Andalusia;

James Vickers, 18, of 942 Locust Ave., Andalusia;

Carmen Morelli, 18, of 2918 Hulmeville Road, Eddington;

Jerry Wright, 19, of 1079 Cedar Ave., Andalusia.

The 10th, arraigned Friday night, was Harry B. Sweeney, 19, of 1692 Bridge Ave., Philadelphia.

Enter No Plea

The two store employees, both of whom entered no plea at Friday night's hearing, were Richard Baran, 1921 Virginia Ave., Edlington, and Thomas H. Harvey Jr., 2411 Ogden Road, Cornwells Heights, both 18. Baran was a stock boy at the store and Harvey a clerk.

They were the first to be arrested, after security officers for the chain of drug stores had questioned them when attention was drawn to a short inventory at the Midway branch. The officials said Friday night that both signed lengthy statements admitting their part and itemizing the goods that was stolen.

From this itemized list, the officials came up with the valuation of $1,000 to $1,500 for the stolen goods.

However, they also said that their inventory has shown $5,000 worth of merchandise missing since last April.

The two employees, despite the statements which store officials said they signed, made no plea Friday night. They were represented by attorney Paul Weinblatt.

Items Stolen

Among the items that were stolen, store officials said Friday night, were toasters, radios, fans, summer furniture, razors, cosmetics, cigarettes and ice cream.

The employees also would take items out of the store when they left, according to testimony Friday night, and pass it over to the others at a midnight rendezvous near their homes.

"Just Fabulous"

Gailus Obert of 804 Dunbury Road, a neighbor, began a campaign Friday to obtain food, clothing, furniture and money for the Smiths.

Mrs. Obert told the Courier-Times this morning the community's response was "just fabulous."

"We've stopped collecting food, furniture and clothing. The Smiths now have all they need. More than $300 has been collected for the family since Friday when we announced the drive," the neighbor said.

Telephone Busy

Mrs. Obert said her telephone never stopped ringing. Calls are still coming in, she reported. Offers of refrigerators, beds, mattresses, dining sets and two television sets were made, Mrs. Obert said.

A spokesman at the Beck-Dougherty Mortuary, where funeral arrangements for the baby are being completed, said the Smiths were overwhelmed by the response of total strangers.

"They couldn't stop crying," the spokesman said.

The Smith girls are staying with their grandmother and the boys are with an aunt while their parents complete the funeral arrangements, Mrs. Obert said.

Chamber Starts Sessions Tonight

Kenneth Rose, mathematics instructor at the Academy of the New Church, Bryn Athyn and expert on the tracking of space satellites, will address the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce at the chamber's first meeting of its Science-Math Seminar tonight.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Delhaas High School.

Rose's discussion will bridge the gap from plane geometry to spherical and four-dimensional geometry required in problems dealing with the universe.

Frederic M. Smith, coordinator for the seminar, has extended an invitation to all interested persons. Smith urges all parents of mathematics students to attend.

Tonight's meeting marks the beginning of the fourth year during which these seminars have been conducted. The seminar will include two full-semester programs in science and math.

Woman Jailed On Morals Charge

Ethel M. Monroe, 29, of 1355 West Girard Ave., Philadelphia, was committed to Bucks County prison yesterday on charges of sodomy.

The woman was arrested by Bensalem Police yesterday at a motel in the company of two juveniles, police said.

She was held for a further hearing by Justice of the Peace Josephine Morris, Trevese.

3,500 Listen To Speeches At Ox Roast

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Justice without delay and a fighting district attorney were promised by speakers at the Bucks County Democrats' annual ox roast at Keller's Church Saturday, marking the start of an active fall political campaign.

Anne X. Alpern, newly appointed state Supreme Court justice, told the large crowd she would act to have every court case brought to trial within a year after it begins.

Miss Alpern, who is the first woman to sit in the Supreme Court of any state, is a candidate for election in the Nov. 7 election. She made a hand-shaking, baby-holding tour of the picnic grounds before the program and helped serve the roast beef sandwiches.

3,500 Attend

Sam J. Thompson, East Rockhill Township supervisor who was chairman of the ox roast, estimated that the crowd had increased to 3,500 before the afternoon was over.

David A. Clarke of Morrisville, the Democratic nominee for district attorney against Republican incumbent Paul R. Beckert, promised to be a fighting DA if elected.

"I am a Quaker by conviction," Clarke said, "but I was a fighting combat officer in the war... The present district attorney prosecutes cases that are brought in to him," Clarke said. "The district attorney should be a law enforcement officer."

"He should take an active part in suppressing juvenile delinquency and in Civil Defense."

Blue Laws

"But for the failure of the district attorney to enforce the Blue Laws," Clarke charged, "we would not have had the Boyer case and the scandal. The man (Boyer) was acquitted but he was not set scott-free. There were high costs against him."

All the Democratic candidates for county office spoke, introduced by County Chairman John C. Mulligan.

Miss Alpern, who wore a black dress with her brunette hair in page boy style, arrived on the picnic grounds before the county Democratic leaders. They set out to a Quakertown restaurant to meet Miss Alpern and her party, but due to a mistake she arrived when the county leaders were on their way to the restaurant.

Dominick J. DiLissio, Democratic nominee for prothonotary, said he would work to stop "scandalism in county government, payroll padding and payola."

Other candidates speaking were Mrs. Florence Fontana, already elected jury commissioner; John E. O'Brien, for recorder of deeds; John J. Long, for sheriff and Richard Bonner, for controller.

Michener Attends

James A. Michener, of Tinicum Township, best-selling author and chairman of last year's Kennedy and Johnson Committee, showed he is active in this year's campaign, also, when he urged the Democrats to work hard for the party.

A non-Democratic candidate for county office attending the ox roast was John Melvin, Republican justice of the peace of Falls Township. Melvin is an independent candidate for sheriff. He was not introduced.

Business Unit To Seat Officers

Myer Friedman of Yardley will be installed as president of the Fairless Hills Businessmen's Association during a special Association meeting 8 p.m. tomorrow at the John W. Galbreath Co. offices in the Fairless Hills Shopping Center.

Other officers to be installed include Robert Landy, vice president; W. Birm Stahl, treasurer and Robert Stover, secretary. Two new members, Jack Friedman and Marion Whippis, will be accepted during the meeting.
